"These are the times that try rescuers souls"

That is pretty much the one thing that I can say about this night. I remember all of the good things that I have been a part of in rescue and we always say that it happened for a reason. So it would figure that the bad things would also happen for a reason. And this is bad. So Karen, the foster, and I have a game plan for tomorrow and we will get the word out everywhere about her plight and our plight at losing her. Thank you to everyone who is pulling with us for Tia to be found safe.
